The DIMMER VIEW

Travail Still Visits San Diego Republicans

One thing a rising, young politician discovers early in his career is that you don't attack highly-respected leaders of the same party on manufactured evidence.

James McKinney, 29, a stockbroker, who was elected chairman of the San Diego County Republican Central Committee January 6th is getting lessons — but they're costly. Costly to him and the Republican county organization.

McKinney worked in the GOP local organization for years. He did a creditable job in his race against State Senator Jim Mills last year.

As chairman of SDCRCC he has made tactical blunders from which he will not recover politically. He recently attacked the integrity of State Senator John Stull.

Stull's reputation for truth and honesty is such that if he says on July 4 that it's going to freeze tonight, it would be prudent to get out the blankets.

Stull supported McKinney for county chairman. They were warm friends — until soon after McKinney was seated. Then, whatever comes with ascension to leadership began to surface. According to Stull, McKinney began to accuse him of being a political sexist, anti-minorities and power mad. None of these charges have even been suggested regarding John Stull in his long and distinguished political career. And now a political tyro was doing it — one that had been supported by the man he accused!

The rift came almost as soon as McKinney was seated as County Chairman. This was revealed in a personal newsletter distributed by Stull to "friends and supporters" dated March 31. In it he charged that McKinney had a "demonstrable lack of integrity" for publicly attacking a Republican officeholder — Stull.

The crack appeared when McKinney assumed the duty of carrying names of candidates to the Republican State Central Committee Convention February 8. Stull was supporting Mike Montgomery, a political activist and volunteer whose philosophy was in agreement with Stull's. McKinney privately pledged his support to Rosemary Ferraro of Downey. But publicly chairman McKinney had to remain properly neutral and announce his decision from the convention floor.

On January 29 "Friends of Rosemary" issued a letter with McKinney's signature supporting Mrs. Ferraro. McKinney said he had not endorsed anyone and that his signature was used without his authorization. He announced his displeasure with the use of his signature in a letter to SDCRCC members.

On January 31 State Central Committee delegates received a newsletter from "Friends of Rosemary" stating McKinney's support of her candidacy. McKinney said he would write a letter saying that the use of his name was unauthorized. He failed to do so at that time, Stull said.

On February 3 at 6 p.m. at a meeting of SDCRCC, McKinney announced that he had not publicly endorsed any candidate nor given permission for his name to be used in endorsement.

Later that evening, at a cocktail party for Montgomery, he told Montgomery that he was remaining neutral until he got on the convention floor. He then signed a letter which was to be distributed to all Central Committee members stating the same determination. "I remain uncommitted," the letter concluded.

On February 8 at 9 a.m. Stull hosted a breakfast in Sacramento for his appointees and some friends. Asked if the Ferraro campaign had used names in its literature without authorization, Stull said categorically that McKinney's name had been used without McKinney's authorization.

On February 8 at 2 p.m. "Friends of Rosemary" issued a newsflash to state convention delegates: "To set the record straight for individuals whose names Rosemary has been accused of misusing: Jim McKinney, San Diego County RCC chairman: 'I'm at the convention now in person, and publicly REITERATE MY SUPPORT FOR ROSEMARY FERRARO. Whatever questions there were on the timing of the announcement are insignificant at this stage and have been blown entirely out of proportion. Rosemary is the best qualified candidate and she is my candidate . . .'"

Stull says the announcement created amazement and dismay. McKinney, several times on the record as being neutral and never previously endorsing nor authorizing his name as supporter of any vice-chairman candidate, had REITERATED the support he denied having given. "At best", said Stull, "he is guilty of duplicity."

Mike Montgomery was elected.

On February 9 Stull met with McKinney twice on the convention floor with no one present except Carolyn Booth who Stull said "eavesdropped briefly.". He said he was attempting to find the reason for McKinney's contradictory and confusing behavior which had embarrassed him after he reported to an audience that he (Stull) could categorically say that McKinney's name had been used without authorization. But that his "reiteration" left this in considerable doubt.

Stull said he had been later accused of threatening McKinney if he didn't resign.

Stull reported that McKinney had said such things as "You're my idol. I can't bear to embarrass you. I will resign for reasons of ill health, God knows I feel sick."

These extravagant statements, says Stull, indicates that he was not hostile, as certainly he would have been if he (Stull) had threatened him.

On February 10, in a San Diego telephone conversation, McKinney had done another about face, Stull said. "He told me, 'I have done nothing wrong, I will not resign.' He had become openly hostile."

Later, Stull said, the innermost circle of McKinney's supporters alleged that Stull had threatened McKinney if he did not resign. Stull denies the allegation.

Stull says he was faced with a dilemma. "There was firsthand and very convincing evidence that Jim McKinney simply could not be trusted. His behavior and attitude appeared to be totally unpredictable. I felt he had lost credibility. Since I had been so vigorous in my support for him, I felt responsible. Stull then wrote a letter to the SDCRCC and to McKinney withdrawing his support and explaining his reasons.

Some of the reasons may have been a February 20 newspaper interview in which McKinney was quoted. ". . . Stull's only argument against me is that I voted for a woman, who he thinks is liberal, for vice chairman.

"Apparently the senator told his friends around the state he controlled the San Diego county chairman. When I defied him he got angry."

Teen Dances Reinstated By L.G. VFW

It was a rewarding turnout for the parents, youngsters and sponsors of the VFW Teenage dance project when it was agreed to reinstate the monthly dances at the Lemon Grove VFW hall at 2885 Imperial ave.

Approval was given, after a meeting of all concerned, by Post Commander James King and Mrs. Behnke, auxiliary president.

The next dance will be May 23.

Meanwhile a bake sale will be held on April 26 by the auxiliary with proceeds going to the youth group.

On May 17 a car wash will be given at the Imperial-Lincoln Shell station. Proceeds from that dance will go toward an extra dance scheduled for June 13.

Tickets distributed for the April dance which was cancelled will be accepted at the May dance, VFW officials said.

Remaining tickets may be obtained from the VFW after May 19 at the VFW Hall between 10 and 5 and at the Moose Lodge, 752 Grand ave., Spring Valley at the same hours.

Broadway Pot Holes Bring Squawk From Merchants

There were more problems than citizens at the Lemon Grove Citizens Advisory Committee.

Fred Anderson, CAC president, listed 9 problems. 7 people showed up. An equal number represented the CAC or San Diego County. The meeting was held at Lemon Grove Crisis Cottage at 3270 Main st.

But local citizens who came were of a single mind.

They came to squawk about the pot holes in the parking area alongside Broadway's business section which they say is the County's fault.

The problem is two-fold. The holes were induced when the county rebuilt Broadway last year, installing curbs in such a manner that the flow of storm water was channeled into the parking area.

The other problem is that the parking area is private property — owned by citizens whose property faces Broadway and cannot be improved by public funds, County officials said.

Henry Blankinship and Paul O'Shea represented the County Engineers. Mike Perkins, administrative aide, represented the Board of Supervisors.

Most vocative was Andrew Kerr, health food store operator. "The county made a mistake and we have to suffer. The wrong elevation was used .Water runs into our parking area instead of away from it."

Elevation Wrong

Blankinship acknowledged that there may be an error in the elevation in at least one place — the area opposite Grove st.

Leonard Klein, stationery store operator said the flooding did not occur before Broadway was rebuilt. He said he was told by the county recently that if he changed the grade on a residential property he owned and the run-off damaged his neighbor's, he would be held liable. "The same principle ought to apply here," he said.

Vaughn Lerwill, said that he had recently repaired his parking area but that the recent rain run-off was causing it to deteriorate again. "We should acquire an attorney to tell us what our rights are," he said.

Larry Scott, donut shop operator, said pot holes have caused broken axles in the past months and that shoppers are now afraid to drive in the parking lanes.

Bob Browne, appliance dealer, said previous attempts to form a service district to deed the parking area to the county had failed. "We could never get the necessary percentage to form the district. Some of the owners live overseas and won't answer letters.

It was suggested that Mike Perkins check the various improvement funds now available to see if the area could qualify for an aid grant.

"The state of the parking area might qualify us for depressed area aid," one said.

Perkins said there was a $1.2 million fund available for community improvement. It was requested that he investigate and report. He also suggested that the Chamber of Commerce would be the proper vehicle for acquiring grants.

TURNOVER CUTIES — Kathy Simmons and Lily Martinez munch lemon turnovers that are being developed by Foodmaker, Inc. Liquor Store Till-Tap Suspect Is Negotiator

A suspected till-tap was reported March 28 by Leland Whitted, a clerk at Windmill Liquor Store. He said that a man had directed his attention to various products on the store's shelves after making a purchase.

Whitted said he accidentally left the cash drawer open.

During the transaction four 10-dollar bills were taken from the drawer. The patron denied guilt but offered to refund part of it.

Whitted copied the patron's license number and called the sheriff's office. 17 minutes from then an officer was at the home of the suspect who denied the charge.

The officer returned to the Lemon Grove office to report the loss and a run-down indicated that the same person had been accused of a similar crime early in January.

Offense Similiar

The officer called Whitted to discuss the new findings and was told that the suspect had just called and offered to return the money if charges were not filed.

The officer returned to the liquor store and waited in a rear room. A woman soon entered and handed Whitted $20. She told the officer, who emerged from the rear, that she didn't know anything about it — that she was just told to take the $20 to the liquor store.

The liquor store operator will decide whether he wants to prefer charges for the other $20 the patron is suspected of keeping. The subject's name is withheld until a charge is made.

Teachers Accept 2.7 Raise

Grove School Board Elects Officers, Discuss Boundaries

The Lemon Grove School board held its annual organizational meeting in conjunction with the regular business meeting Tuesday evening at the District administration center on Lincoln st. Board member Leonard Klee was elected president, John Linn vice president and H. Warren Buckner clerk. Superintendent Robert Sutton assumed duties of board secretary for a fourth term.

At the regular meeting, it was announced that the Certificated Employees Council of Lemon Grove had met with Sutton and voiced approval of the latest salary offer from the board. The teachers had originally asked for a 5.6% increase retroactive to the beginning of the current school year. The salary schedule agreed upon calls for a 2.7% across-the-board hike effective April 1. The increase was extended to all district employees.

The board also discussed the prospect of a boundary change affecting students living in the Mt. Vernon school district. A plan is under consideration to reapportion a section of the Mt. Vernon district immediately east of Skyline dr. into the Monterey Heights school district. Board members raised questions regarding the safety of children having to cross Skyline and whether the change should be optional for current fifth graders. The alteration is under consideration to accommodate for rapid neighborhood growth in the Mt. Vernon district. No formal action was taken on the matter at Tuesday's meeting.

It was announced that the next board meeting will be April 29, a departure from the regular schedule to accommodate with board member commitments. Meetings are regularly held the second and fourth Tuesday each month and are open to citizen concerns.

5.7% Pay Raise Pending for LM-SV Teachers

A fact-finding panel presented a report to the La Mesa-Spring Valley school board last week recommending a 5.7 percent across-the-board salary increase for certificated staff, retroactive to January.

A key issue in the recommendation centered upon the 1976 P.L. 874 income from the federal government. The income stems from the number of military dependents and certain federally-employed dependents educated in public school districts. P.L. 874 funds are acted on yearly by Congress.

Superintendent Jim Runge commented that it would be irresponsible to commit P.L. 874 money to salaries when neither Congress nor the President have even addressed themselves to the 1976 issue. Funds from P.L. 874 legislation historically have been politically controversial.

Runge, citing the need for time to consider the recommendation, introduced a counter proposal for a 2.7 percent raise retroactive to January 1 to be in effect while the board considers the panel's recommendation. Board members accepted the superintendent's recommendation.

Prowl Charge Dropped Against Grove Youth

Charges were dropped against Jerry Silverthorn, 18, of 8345 Golden ave., Lemon Grove, who was charged March 25 with prowling about 10:30 p.m. near Borderf Auto Parts, 3617 Costa Bella st.

Although canned beer was found in the auto in which he and two younger teen-age youths were seated, there was no marijuana seeds in the vehicle as previously reported.

"I'm determined to open this party to women, blacks and other minorities, even if it's over my dead body."

Said Stull, "We have the spectacle of a SDRCC chairman seeking to obscure the facts of his own reprehensible behavior by trying to discredit a Republican officeholder on hot political issues, which have absolutely nothing to do with the case in point and were totally trumped up.

On April 7 in a SDCRCC meeting at Republican headquarters Jim McKinney resigned.

He blamed Stull for conducting a campaign to remove him as chairman.

An SDCRCC Internal Committee had reported there to be no provisions in the by-laws to remove an officer without due process, setting up the possibility of legal action against the committee and individual members.

But there was a reported 33 votes among the 57 members for ousting McKinney.

In resigning McKinney urged the Central Committee to incorporate into the by-laws procedural regulations so that officers could be removed only through defined channels.

For the present, at least, quiet reigned on the local Republican front.

Take Measles Seriously, Warns Health Dept. Chief

not have been sufficiently effective. He suggests that children immunized before 1968 be evaluated by their physicians to determine if they received adequate immunization.

"Immunize your children against measles now," is the urgent advice of Dr. James Chin.

For all children who were immunized before age one, Chin recommends a booster shot. Medi-Cal may have their children immunized free of charge.

He warned that Monterey, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties have been the scenes of recent measles outbreak. Many of the victims were junior high and high school students. Most of the group entered school prior to 1968 when measles immunization became a prerequisite for entry to elementary school.

"Some parents might as well still be living in the Dark Ages when plagues raged uncontrolled and nothing could be done," said Chin, who serves as chief of the State Department of Health's Infectious Disease Section, "for they don't bother to get their youngsters the one-time inoculation required to provide lifetime protection against measles."

Department of Health statistics prove the validity of Chin's warning. The recent outbreaks have resulted in twice as many measles victims already this year as California suffered by this time in 1974 and triple the 1973 caseload to this date.

Too many persons regard measles as an almost harmless illness involving little more than a rash. According to Chin they are wrong. Measles can lead to encephalitis, pneumonia, blindness and even death. Children under 16 are especially vulnerable.

A few of this year's cases have reportedly occurred among persons immunized prior to 1968. According to Chin, the older vaccines may

CALPIRG Opens Service Center

The California Public Interest Group (CALPIRG) has opened a consumer service center at 621 4th ave., San Diego.

It will be open 10-5 Monday through Thursday and may be reached by telephone 236-1535.

The Center will function as a clearinghouse for information on consumer issues as well as handling incidences of consumer complaints.

"CALPIRG will refer callers to the proper law enforcement agency or other regulatory organization if we cannot facilitate a resolution to the consumer's complaint ourselves," said Anne D'Arcy, in charge of the Center.

Margaret Philpott, a CALPIRG staff member who helped set up the Center, and Dan Franklin, Executive Director of CALPIRG, said the education and referral center for consumer problems fills a vacuum existing in San Diego. "We believe a preventive approach to consumer problems will complement existing law enforcement agencies," said Franklin.

Philpott said CALPIRG investigation shows that many consumers do not realize they are being defrauded. "Individuals who do not realize this," said Philpott, "are frustrated in their attempts to find the proper law enforcement agency with whom to effectively register their complaints. We hope to eliminate the problem by having them go through us. If we can not facilitate a resolution, we will refer them to an agency who will."

The center has unlimited facilities and can handle several hundred complaints a month.

A pamphlet library and index to articles, and information on consumer problems is being developed by D'Arcy. "We get many requests for in-depth information on certain federal and state agencies, and certain consumer issues — such as landlord-tenant problems," D'Arcy said. "A library will enable consumers to research a particular problem."

Sue Bailey Runs One-Woman Clayworks Shop

By John Kowalczyk

An interest in sculpture prompted Sue Bailey to take up pottery at Grossmont College ten years ago. The class appealed to her and she soon became an amateur potter, using school facilities to process her works. Today, her enthusiasm has developed into an industrious self-proprietorship in clayworks.

She holds a resaler's license to peddle a growing assortment of ceramic items which are all home made. Her workshop — complete with motorized potter's wheel, a variety of clays and chemicals for glazes and a gas-fueled kiln — was built in the garage of her home at 8996 Mariposa st., La Mesa.

Cups to Pots

She is active throughout the week throwing items — shaping clay on the potter's wheel — ranging in size from a small cup to a 13-lb. pot. Grossmont classes and years of experience have helped Sue become an agile craftsman at the art. Each week she prepares an average of 100 to 150 pieces.

Her repertoire has developed into an impressive array of items in the short time she has been involved in the craft including casseroles, cups, planters, cookie jars, dinner and serving plates, cake and cheese plates, candleholders, cream and sugar holders, water cans, bird feeders, several types of bowls, and vases. All pieces are functional rather than solely for esthetics.

The production process is a massive undertaking, she explains. She handles each piece 10 times within the week-long production sequence. Each item is shaped, partially dried, trimmed, decorated, completely dried, fired in the kiln (pronounced KILL), and glaze-fired.

She can lose a piece at any stage along the way, since there are so many variables to control in the process, and always the possibility of dropping something.

The most critical stages are the kiln firings. Sue averaged about 25 per cent yield from the works she fired in the first few loads. Her $1000 kiln, the third and largest oven installed outside her home lab (the first two failed to reach firing temperature) must warm gradually to temperatures reaching 2250 to 2300°F once and sometimes twice a week. Rapid heating or cooling will crack the material.

The critical temperature curve calls for special insulating bricks and an expensive set of temperature gauges which, coupled with the gas hook-up, extend the kiln costs far beyond the budget of most amateur potters.

$90 Gas Bill

The expense for the kiln is matched by the cost of operating it for a considerable length of time. Firing and cooling is a three-day affair demanding frequent checks. The heating process consumes about 80,000 cu. ft. of gas a week, Sue confessed, sending her monthly gas bill soaring to about $90 a month.

POTTER Sue Bailey throws a small item on her motorized wheel. Coordination separates the pros from the beginners at this stage of potting, she says. Strong wrists help.

Materials are not abundant in the area and can be costly. Sue orders supplies from firms in Santa Ana and San Clemente and saves by ordering clay by the ton.

She shares technical advice with fellow potter Dave Cuzick who runs a similar business at 9204 Campo rd., in Spring Valley.

Sue has done special items on request, but perfers customers to choose from works on hand. She retails her wares to flower shops in the area and holds annual sales at Christmas. This year, the Bailey's hold their first Spring Sale the weekend of May 3-4.

Her husband, Bob, is too busy with his own entrepreneurial activities to dip his fingers into the clay bag. He owns the New Dimensions Sleep Shop in East San Diego which is a split-off from his father's business, A-1 Western Furniture.

Sue Bailey's father is Dr. Basil Maloney, an obstetrician who practiced a number of years in Lemon Grove.

Globe Curtain Rises for 'Tenth Man' Tuesday

The comedy-drama "The Tenth Man" opens Tuesday at the Carter Centre Stage in Balboa Park. Mark Feder has staged the Paddy Cheyefsky play to run through May 18. Feder last appeared on the Carter stage in the Atlas Award winning role of the elderly furniture dealer in "The Price" last season.

In "The Tenth Man" an elderly Jew believes his granddaughter to be possessed by a dybbuk, or migratory spirit. He joins with his friends to determine a cure in a shabby meeting room used as a temple. Arguments arise as to whether she is insane or actually possessed in this contemporary adaption of the traditional fabile, "The Dybbuk."

"The Tenth Man" will be performed nightly except Monday at 8 p.m. Sunday afternoon performances are scheduled for April 27, May 4, 11 and 18. Successful subscription sales this year have limited seating. Theatre-goers are advised to make reservations early.

HOME-COOKED

This Week's RECIPE

Take The Yawn Out of Meat Loaf

Meat loaf is one of those old family standbys that appears in every good cook's collection of favorite recipes. But meat loaf does get boring. There's a sameness to it — and a pervasive aura of budget-consciousness — that just doesn't do justice to its potential for savory goodness.

One way to make meat loaf more than "just meat loaf" is to make more than one. Meat loaf twins offer a choice of sauces that change everyday flavor into something special. As a matter of fact, meat loaf twins would be ideal fare for a buffet party. Cook it now and serve it later — the the accompaniment of assorted anti-pasto, made up of Italian specialties like artichoke hearts, mushroom salad, olives, roasted peppers and eggplant caponata. All are available (no preparation needed) in the ethnic section of the supermarket.

MEAT LOAF OREGANO

- 2½ lbs. ground beef, veal and pork
- 2 eggs
- 2 Tbsps. chopped parsley
- 1 Tbsp. olive oil
- ½ cup Italian flavored bread crumbs
- 2 tsps. lemon juice
- salt and pepper
- 1 tsp. oregano
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 jar (16 oz.) spaghetti sauce with mushrooms

Pre-heat oven to 350°F. Combine all ingredients except spaghetti sauce, working them together with your hands. Shape into two oval loaves. Place in lightly greased shallow pan. Pour half of spaghetti sauce over loaves. Bake 1 hour, basting at intervals with remainder of sauce. Serve one loaf with hot mushroom sauce and the other with cold olive topping. Each loaf serves 4.

HOT MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 Tbsp. hot mustard

Stir all ingredients to blend completely. Heat and serve.

COLD OLIVE TOPPING

- 1 jar (12 oz.) olive condite
- 1 Tbsp Italian capers
- 1 Tbsp. prepared horseradish

Mix all ingredients thoroughly in blender. Refrigerate at least 1 hour in covered container. Serve.

Price Fixers to Rebate Up to $15 to Chip Eaters

April 21 is the deadline for California, Nevada, and Arizona residents to file for cash refunds resulting from an out-of-court settlement with eleven major snack food manufacturers. Consumers who lived in the three states and purchased potato chips, tortilla chips, corn chips or barbecue chips between January 1, 1967, and December 31, 1970, are eligible to file refund claims.

The anti-trust class action suit alleging conspiracy to fix prices was filed some four years ago by a group of consumer representatives in the federal district court in Los Angeles.

Consumers could have a maximum of $15 refunded per household depending on the number of claims received. To order the form to submit a claim, write: Clerk, U.S. District Court, P.O. Box 76852, Los Angeles, California 90076.

$3 'Factory Rebate' on Coliseum Fight Program

It's "fan appreciation night" Friday at the Coliseum.

Mickey Davies, fight promoter at the 15th and E cathedral of swat, said all ringside and general admission tickets for Friday's card would be discounted $3 a person.

Puerto Rico's Jose Rosa will engage veteran Johnny Meza of Phoenix in the 10 round main event.

The speedy bantamweights are aggressive fighters and the match promises all the action fight fans expect.

Rosa, a world ranked contender and former Ring Magazine "Prospect of the Month" owns an impressive ring mark of 16-1 with 12 knockouts.

His only loss as a pro occurred his last time out when he dueled the newly crowned W.B.A.-king Alfonso Zamora of Mexico.

The 25-year old Meza, who like his opponent is a newcomer to the local scene, claims a 28-5-2 record. He is an excellent body puncher.

On April 18 the Coliseum will present Rudy Hernandez, a lightweight teenager with a 16-0 record. He will take on Japan's Shinichi Sato.

Last Week

Manuel Lujan, a recent high school graduate, ran his record to 16-0-1 by easily whipping Jorge Valenzuela a featherweight of Tucson. Lujan had his foe almost defenseless but the veteran, who claims his age to be 26, was able to regroup himself several times during the 10-round encounter. The decision was unanimous for Lujan.

In another featherweight scrap, German Lopez decked Eladio Leal at 2:11 of the 4th round of a scheduled 6 rounder.

In a middleweight fight Wayne Beal KO'd Rodrigo Carrillo at 2:50 of the 2nd round.

A meeting between light-heavyweights Mardi Manuello and Tony Harrington was little more than a workout when Harrington claimed a low blow and doubled up in apparent pain.

The engagement was called "no decision" pending a review by the State Athletic Commission.

Indian Brothers Sign With Friars

Vijay Amritraj, a quarter-finalist in last summer's U. S. Open, has signed to play with the San Diego Friars of the World Team Tennis.

He will be paired with his brother, Anand, to give the San Diego squad one of the strongest doubles teams in the WTT.

The Amritraj brothers recently defeated Stan Smith and Bob Lutz in the finals of a World Championship Tennis event.

The signings were the first announced by the Friars who will play in a "festival team tournament" at the Sports Arena, May 9, 10, 11.

Also competing in the three-day (afternoon and evening matches) event will be Billie Jean King, Rosemary Casals, John Newcombe, Tom Okker and Marty Riessen, among the nearly 50 top women and men professionals with the six team involved.

Beat Connors

Vijay Amritraj, 21, earned $38,000 last year and owns victories over Jimmy Connors, Rod Laver (twice) and Tom Gorman. His win over Bjorn Borg at Forest Hills in the Open distinguished his year's steadily improving performance.

With his brother, Anand, he has enjoyed enormous doubles success. The team paced India into the Davis Cup finals last year beating U.S.S.R. The brothers also scored a smashing Davis Cup upset by defeating defending titlist Australia in the Eastern Zone playoffs.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

It's Baseball Time; where still ain't nobody lost the pennant, yet.

In spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of who the heli is going to win the pennant in the fall. No doubt about it, baseball is still king in the bewitchment known as fandom.

Folks, young and not-so-young, flock to the parks with the arrival of robins, spring fashions, late snows and unbowed prideful ball players complete with early tans and ancient sayings of how the same club that lost everything in sight last year is a bonafide pennant contender now 'cause a change was made somewhere in the infield, outfield, behind the plate, and/or on the mound.

Season tickets are hustled to groups, persons, pals and perfect strangers behind the insane logic that "you gotta show the players the town is behind them."

Stadiums are swept clean, walls are washed, new paint is applied in varying degrees, depending on the age of the ball yard and the thriftiness of the owner, and since no-one has yet won a bunch, nor lost a bunch, everybody is still "in the running" for the pennant.

And, of course, baseball writers, columnists, radio jocks, free loaders, pool-room hustlers and other newspaper types all take a shot at the "How the baseball races will come out," derby.

Me, too.

Now everybody in the world and Joe Garagiola pick the poor San Diego Padres to finish where they have always finished. Deep in the basement. So far down they echo their many pitches and few base hits.

And you got to respect guys like Garagiola, who have been around so long that dandruff has become a thrill. Joe has a cleaner plate than the last guy through a Navy chow line.

But you got to respect a man who ends a mediocre baseball career with the solid establishment as resident jock-type expert in the weird world of broadcasting.

Joe once called signals at the Presidential Ball. That ought to tell you something about the telecasting business.

In any event, he will present his high, intelligent forehead right next to the dreadful drone of Curt Gawdy and the inane quires of Tony Kubek over NBC's version of "baseball in the living room" each Saturday afternoon and Monday night until football returns.

At which time, of course, the races will have mostly have been long decided. Except in the National West and the American East, where things look to get mighty hot in the early going and stay that way till the very end.

Going over the entire picture in a short take, pick the Yankees by a thin edge (Catfish becomes Goldfish for the New Yorkers and Bobby Bonds leads the way afoot and afield) over the Baltimores where all they have is hittin', pitchin' and defense.

In the American West, look for the Texas Rangers to outlast Charlie's crew up in Oakland, where stupid pride let a big fish get away.

And in the National East, throw a dime over Philadelphia, St. Louis and Pittsburgh and cover 'em all. And if Tom Seaver returns to form. fit the Mets in, too.

On pure sentiment, pick the Phillies. It's time sometime nice happened to Danny Ozark. He was born in Buffalo and lives in Philadelphia and that should be enough for any lifetime.

In the National West, watch the Reds and the Dodgers scramble to the wire, with L.A. taking the flag, pennant, and World title after topping out with three million paid admissions.

Strong pitching (They got Buz Capra as a gift) and solid hitting should move Atlanta into third and even contending for a while. Houston will take a while to get over Don Wilson's death.

And say you read it here. San Diego over San Francisco for the fifth spot. The Giants are old and slow, no pitching and no bench. The Padres have good young arms, decent relief, Dave Windfield and Tito Fuentes. And no where to go but up. Look out Jack-in-the-box, here comes McDonald's.

HollyPark Opens Friday: 75 Days of Racing Set

Hollywood Park will open its 1975 racing season Friday, treating Grandstand and Club House patrons to spectacular chameleonic surroundings featuring many new conveniences that have made the Inglewood plant the finest in the world of racing.

Action during the scheduled 76 days of competition will be presented on a Wednesday through Sunday schedule, with the exception of three special Monday racing programs. The first of these will climax an opening four-day span on April 14. First post every day will be 2 p.m.

Hollywood Park management is forecasting a record meeting, the optimism based on the continued program of major changes and additions to all segments of the plant and the knowledge that a record purse program, expected to exceed $9 million, will attract the finest jockeys and thoroughbreds in the world.

Headlining the major attractions will be the famed $150,000 Hollywood Gold Cup June 21 and the exciting "Double Crown" for 3-year-olds, the $100,000 Swaps Stakes June 29 and the $150,000 Hollywood Derby July 13.

Laffit Pincay, Jr., seeking a sixth straight riding championship, will headline a stellar cast of reinsmen that will include world's champion Bill Shoemaker; former national champion Sandy Hawley, and such noted riders as Donald Pierce, Fernando Toro, Jorge Tejeira and Jerry Lambert.

Adding more excitement to the spring and summer season will be the $90,000 Sunday Sweep, a weekly contest that will give patrons an opportunity to earn rich rewards for superior handicapping skills.

Good Pitching Brightens S.V. Bobby Sox Opener

By Paul Stark

Michelle Kelly of Little Eden Produce highlighted the opening day play in the Spring Valley Bobby Sox League Saturday by recording a seven-inning no-hitter against the Spring Valley Merchants, despite the fact that the Merchants won the game 1-0 in the ninth inning. It's a Bobby Sox scorekeeping peculiarity.

Bernadette Gonzales got the only hit for the Merchants in the ninth inning with a bunt single off Lisa Jordan to drive in Gwen Smith who led off the inning by being safe on an error.

Cindy Carroll and Vicki Culver almost matched Kelly's no-hit, one-strike-out, three-walk pitching masterpiece by teaming up to a three hitter and fanning nine for the win.

Debbie Allen led the Spring Valley Woman's Club to a 11-5 win over Blanchard Realty by stroking a single, double and a triple in five trips to the plate and drove in five runs.

The Woman's Club snapped a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning with three runs on four hits, including a two run double by Miss Allen, to take a 6-3 lead.

Delp Plastering opened their season by beating Thomas & Son Disposal 9-6 behind the five hit and seven strike out pitching of Cathy Saucer and Susan Hobb.

The Bargain Bin Market took advantage of four hits and six errors in the first inning to score nine times and went on to beat Nome's Tropical Fish 12-7 behind the four hit and nine strike out pitching of Lori Netz and Kathy Martin.

In the minors Becki Clarke gave the Tom's Meats Red Devils an 11-11 tie with Sportland by driving in the tying run in the bottom of the seventh with a single down the first base line to score Cindy Howard.

Clark also stopped the hitting attack of the Maroon Mauradeers by hurling a five hitter and fanning nine. She also had a good day with the bat by going 2-3 and driving in four runs.

Jean's Dance Studio Tigers opened their season by nipping the Sports Thunderbolts 12-8.

Goodbody's Frisky Frogs beat the Willenberg Gold Diggers 16-10.

Padres Face 8 Games In Initial Road Trip

With the young season barely underway, the San Diego Padres are already looking towards their first road trip of the campaign. But, first things first, as the Padres must finish up the current homestand with the Cincinnati Reds.

Manager John McNamara's club will be testing the Reds Friday, Saturday and Sunday, in an early-season matchup with the team named most likely to dethrone the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League's Western Division. That is, if anyone does.

Game times will be 7 p.m. for the first two and then the usual 1 p.m. for the finale on Sunday afternoon.

As for the initial road swing of the year, it will be a three city juant featuring eight games in nine days. A three-game return engagement with the San Francisco Giants, the Padres opponent in the regular season opener, will kick things off. The two clubs will be clashing Monday through Wednesday, April 14-16.

Following an off-day on April 17, the Padres will journey cross country to meet Atlanta on April 18-20 and then wrap things up in Houston with the Astros April 21-22.

Giants Old Buddies?

"We'll have a bit of an edge going into the series with the Giants," Padre skipper McNamara said. "We saw quite a bit of them during spring training and then, of course, the three opening games in San Diego so we've got a pretty good book on them already. However, we'll be going in a little cold against the other clubs. However, from what we've been able to pick up, there shouldn't be any real surprises in store. Most of the clubs are pretty much the same as a year ago."

Despite being only the second week of the season, the games with the Giants will complete one-third of their season series. In fact, the Padres and Giants won't be locking up again until the last full week in June.

Pad-Pourri

April is one of the heaviest month's for home games for the Padres. They have no less than 15 home games (14 dates as the April 27 date with Atlanta is a doubleheader) scheduled for San Diego Stadium . . . The upcoming road trip is the only juant of the month for the Padres . . . The next one won't be until May 5, but there are four open dates in May . . . Interdivision play with their Eastern counterparts won't start for San Diego until May 9 when the Padres are in Chicago to meet the Cubs.

S.D. Relays Booked on State Track Saturday

The 16th annual San Diego Relays will be held Saturday on San Diego State's Choc Sportsman Track, and the Aztecs hope to take advantage of the home facility to record some good times. Formerly the meet was held in Balboa Bowl.

San Diego is 2-3 in dual meets this year, following a six-point loss to Long Beach State last Saturday and not counting a Tuesday meet at Northridge. However, the Aztecs placed third in the Easter Relays at Santa Barbara two weeks ago, and ran good times in several events.

The Aztecs already have set a school record in the two-mile relay this year, running 7:33.6 at Santa Barbara. San Diego will enter a team of Odie Huffman, Earl Robinson, Brian Donohue, and Steve Wulf in that event on Saturday. Their best times this year add up to 7:31.9, and their lifetime bests total a quick 7:27.5.

San Diego will also enter a strong team in the distance medley, running Harold Williams (440), Huffman (880), Robinson (1320) and Allen Hazard (mile). Best times this season for that quartet add up to 9:46.8, under the school record of 9:48.6 set in 1970.

Competition for the Aztecs will begin at 10:20 a.m. with the intermediate hurdles, with the pole vault scheduled for 10:30. The distance medley begins at 1:30 p.m. and the two-mile relay at 2:40.

Record Holders

In the mile relay, USC, with Rod Connors, Tom Andrews, Ken Randle and Trevor Campbell appears to have the best of the reported national times at 3:07.4, made at Arizona State in March.

Mickey's Missile entered a team which won at 3:08.0, at Irvine, reportedly eased up.

That local team was made up of James King, third-best U.S. time of 49.5 in the 400 meter intermediate hurdles; Wes Williams, 1974 and 1975 AAU champion in the indoor 600 yards; Steve Williams, world record holder in the 100, and James Redd with a 46.1 440 in 1974.

University of Southern California will be on hand with a world-leading 1975 time of 39.3 for the 440 relay. Opponents will be the Beverly Hills Striders with a third best 39.4.

The USC team is anchored by NCAA champion James Gilkes who had a wind-aided 19.8 200 meters last year.

Possibly opposing Gilkes will be Striders anchor leg AAU champion Don Quarrie from Jamaica. He is holder of the worlds-best 200 meter.

Most fans feel USC is the team to beat.

Ken Bernard is meet director.

Southwestern Prepares for Jazz Weekend

The thirteenth annual Jazz Festival is presented this weekend at Southwestern College, according to Richard Robinette, instructor and coordinator of the event. Bands from California schools and colleges will compete during the daytime hours and a concert will be presented Saturday night in the gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

Featured in the concert will be Don Ellis and the winning bands. Also performing is the Southwestern College Jazz Ensemble.

Tickets for the concert go on sale at the Gym box office prior to the concert. Reduced rates are offered for children under 12, Southwestern A.S.O. cardholders and senior citizens with Southwestern Gold Cards.

McNamara Sees Return for Davis, Roberts

The Padres cut their roster to 25 players Friday but manager John McNamara sees high hopes for the return of two of the releasees.

McNamara told San Diego Sportscasters / Sportswriters Monday that third baseman Dave Roberts would be back. Probably this year. "He gets the ball without fighting it. He needs only to get his stroke back at the plate." He was sent to Hawaii.

McNamara was also high on Catcher Bob Davis. "He definitely is a major leaguer. He needs just a little more experience. His batting will improve and he'll learn to take charge behind the plate," McNamara said.

Writers were impressed by Davis' effort during spring training.

He, too, was assigned to Hawaii. mg

Moto-cross, Street Stocks at South Bay

A pair of racing events are on tap Friday and Saturday evenings at the South Bay Park Speedway in Chula Vista, where the second weekly night racing program is slated.

Friday night the CMC Moto-cross Motorcycle races get underway at 7:30 p.m. on the 1-mile, 12 turn, triple jump course.

Saturday evening it's the MARA Street Stock Cars in the quarter-mile clay oval, with the first race at 8 p.m.

Last Saturday night's Street Stock Car races had to be called off after the semi-final, when the San Diego Gas and Electric equipment broke down, blacking out the speedway and all of Otay Mesa. The rains started to fall and the program was called off.

Victor Regalado

Regalado Sees Golf Program For Youngsters in Tijuana

LA COSTA — Victor Regalado isn't your ordinary young golf professional. For one thing, he isn't a product of the tall, blond mold from which so many of today's players rise. For another, he has goals which exceed those of his contemporaries.

The dark-haired, husky (5 ft.-10½ and 181) Tijuana born Regalado has indicated he hopes to achieve a record in golf which would make him a hero to Mexicans, something like the relationship Gary Player enjoys with South Africans.

"I want to get established as a successful player, then I want to go back to Mexico and work with young, promising players there. I'd like to update and enlarge the entire golf program for kids," he said.

Regalado, 26, has some impressive credentials on both sides of the border. In his first full year on the American pro tour, Victor won the Pleasant Valley Classic last August in Sutton, Mass., where he overtook veterans Tom Weiskopf and Dave Hill with a birdie on the final hole.

Along with his $40,000 paycheck, Victor earned an invitation to the $200,000 MONY (Mutual of New York) Tournament of Champions, which will be played April 24-27 at the La Costa Country Club.

Honored

"I'm really excited about playing in the MONY Tournament of Champions," says Victor. "It's an honor to be with all the top players. And it's close to home. Besides, I've several times and I usually played the La Costa course play it pretty well."

Victor began his career at 11 at the Tijuana CC, two blocks from his home. He entered his first tournament at 14 and won it. He won numerous events thereafter, including the Mexican Amateur in 1970.

He turned professional in 1971 and won the 1972 Mexican PGA, the Mexican Masters in 1972 and '73 and was runner-up to Lee Trevino in the 1973 Mexican Open. He also won the San Diego City Amateur in 1967 and 1970. Twice he represented his homeland in the World Amateur Cup Matches and twice in the World Cup Matches.

Victor smiled and said, "You know, Lee and Homero are misrepresenting themselves as "Super Mex.' I'm the true 'Super Mex.' Lee and Homero are Texas Mexicans."

However, he himself will become an American citizen at the end of this year through marriage to a young San Diego lady he coyly refuses to identify.

Little League Kickoff Set For Sunday

Two of the four divisions of he Lemon Grove Little League will kick-off the 1975 sea on with opening ceremonies and two-timing exhibition games Sunday beginning at 1 p.m. Four two-inning games re scheduled for the Majors nd three two-inning games or the Intermediates.

The Invocation for the opening day ceremonies will be delivered by Rev. Michael D. Maxson of the Lemon Grove Christian Church.

Major League teams will begin the regular season on Monday, April 14, with games scheduled weekdays and Saturdays. The Intermediates will ave another week of practice nd exhibition games befor pening the '75 campaign on Monday, April 21.

Kickoff April 20

The league's six Minor League and three Clinic teams will hold their kick-off ceremonies on Sunday, April 20 at the Lemon Grove Little League Park. In addition to the ceremonies, awards will be presented to the youngsters selling the most candy bars during the current money raising effort.

Lemon Grove Little League officials have extended an invitation to the community to watch the games during the season at the three-diamond complex located on Glencoe dr., adjacent to Monterey Heights School. The complex has ample bleacher seating, snack bar facilities and restrooms.

Admission is free.

Women Wrestlers In Crown Try

Irish Mickey Doyle will be on the wrestling card Tuesday at the Coliseum. His opponent has not been named.

Headline attraction is a California Woman's title bout with champion Betty Ricoli meeting Jeanne Antone.

The Hollywood blondes will be back to take on John Tolos and Reno Taffolia. Doors open at 6:30; the fun starts at 7:30.

Cajon Speedway Ready For Record Crowd Saturday

For the 15th campaign at the 3/8th mile, hi-banked Cajon Speedway oval, 48 cars have already passed technical inspection and El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. officials expect a field of 60 to battle Saturday night for berths in the 20-car, 30-lap main event.

Time trials start at 6:30 p.m. with the three-lap, four-car trophy dash set for an 8 o'clock beginning. A crowd of more than 5,000 should be on hand.

Defending champion Ron Overman, the handsome San Diegan who finished in the top five 17 times last season, plans to have his 1975 Camaro with its 388 cubic inch engine ready in time for the opener. However, his crew will need to work nights to meet the deadline.

Still, Jim Hitt, the 1971 titleholder from Lemon Grove and the winningest driver on the race track, should have his Mach 1 Ford humming and two-time champion Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley seems to be getting excellent speed from a new Camero convertible.

Two Jims — Whitt and Hitt

Adding a bit of spice to the '75 campaign will be the return of Jim Whitt to the racing wars. The El Cajon driver won the '69 title but has been out of action for the past two years.

A fourth former champion in the field will be '70 king Ed Hale, always a crowd-pleaser.

The activity will be a bit quieter with the use of mufflers but the action undoubtedly will be tighter since all machines will use a newly-developed racing tire which should withstand the stress and temperature range of the asphalt.

IRS TAX ANSWERS ?

F. S. Schnaidt, DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. How can I get an exemption from withholding tax?

A. If you had no income tax liability for the past year, and expect to have no tax liability for the current year, you may apply for exemption from withholding tax. The exemption applies only to income tax and not to social security tax (FICA). To be exempt, you must give your employer a filled-in Form W-4E.

Q. Please explain the two common methods of accounting which the IRS recognizes.

A. In the cash method of accounting which is used by most individual taxpayers, all items of income are reported in the year in which you actually receive them, or when they are credited to your account or otherwise made available to you on demand. All expenses are deducted in the year when they are paid. In the accrual method, an item of income is accounted for when it is earned, whether or not it has been received, and an expense is deducted when it is incurred rather than when it is paid.

Q. I receive dividends from my account in a savings and loan association, but these dividends are really interest. How should I report this on my Federal return?

A. Certain distributions commonly referred to as dividends must be reported as interest. You must report as interest so-called dividends on deposits or on withdrawable or share accounts in federal savings and loan associations if received on share accounts issued after March 27, 1942. Dividends from domestic savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks and cooperative banks must also be reported as interest.

Q. I entered a contest in a local newspaper which offered a prize of anything advertised in its pages. I won and chose the services of a plumber as my prize. How do I figure the tax on my prize?

A. Prizes and awards in goods or services must be included in income at their fair market value. Whatever the going rate is for the work the plumber does for you will be the amount you must include in your gross income.

Tools Taken

A thief broke into the home of Richard Scott Wilkins at 874 Banock st., Spring Valley March 27 and took his tools valued at $240.

It could not be ascertained where the intruder got into the house.

Equalization Chief Complains

Taxable Sales Total Levels Off

"Rather dismal" retail sales activity in the fourth quarter of 1974 closed out a year when the physical volume of goods sold was no greater than the year before.

This was the economic picture painted in a Board of Equalization quarterly report released by Board Chairman John W. Lynch.

The report, "Taxable Sales in California," shows that taxable transactions totaled $18.3 billion in the fourth quarter of 1974, a gain of $1.3 billion or 7.8 percent over the like period of 1973. But "performance was rather dismal," the report notes, considering that prices had increased over 12 percent since the earlier period.

The calendar-year total reached $68.1 billion, up $6.3 billion, or 10.3 percent, from the 1973 taxable sales volume. But the annual increase was approximately the same as the average increase in consumer prices for the year; therefore, the physical volume of goods sold during 1974 was no greater than in 1973.

Taxable Sales Less

The six percent growth in taxable sales of retail stores was less than that of either business and personal service shops or all other outlets which increased 8.2 and 12.0 percent, respectively.

Nondurables increased 10.5 percent over the fourth quarter of 1973, outperforming durables, which declined one percent for the period. This makes the tenth consecutive quarter that nondurables growth surpassed growth of durables. Sixty-four percent of retail stores sales were of nondurables.

Service stations, because of higher gasoline prices, posted a 20 percent gain in taxable sales in the fourth quarter 1974 compared with 1973, a larger gain than any other class of business. Nevertheless, service station volume of $1.5 billion was second to the $2 billion of department stores. The gain of 5.1 percent for the latter, however, was less than that for all retail stores combined.

Car Registration Drop

Sales of new car dealers fell 10.2 percent short of the depressed level of the fourth quarter of 1973. The decrease of 23.3 percent in registrations of new vehicles in the holiday quarter presents a truer indication of the business volume of new car dealers because prices of new autos had risen more than 12 percent during the year. Registrations of new autos and trucks have dropped from prior year levels in each of the most recent six quarters.

While markets handling all types of alcoholic beverages recorded a hefty 19.6 percent gain in taxable sales, markets selling no alcoholic beverages (grouped with all other food stores) boosted their taxable business by 23 percent to $78.6 million. These growth rates are somewhat exaggerated, however, because in the final quarter of 1973 the sales of several supermarket chains had been curtailed by strikes.

The San Joaquin Valley and central coastal counties for the fifth consecutive quarter surpassed the other regions of the state in taxable sales growth, with an increase of 12.4 percent. Northern California and the mountain counties ranked second, at 11 percent. The San Francisco Bay Area and Southern California made gains of 9.2 and 7.7 percent respectively.

State and local sales tax collections for the fourth quarter of 1974 totaled $1,124,858,000. Of this total, $883.9 million came from state sales tax collections, and $241 million came from local sales tax collections.

More Funds Found For Hot Meals

An additional $3.4 million will go to provide hot meals during the next three years to Californians over 65 years old, Secretary Mario Obledo, of the State Health and Welfare Agency announced last week.

A recent departmental study revealed the availability of the extra funds for the nutrition program. The federally funded state program is now budgeted at $8.6 million a year. Some of the additional monies are immediately available according to Obledo and represent unspent federal funds which have been allocated to the State Office on Aging.

Black Academy Of Aviation Gets City OK

A San Diego City Council committee has encouraged a Black operated aviation academy in its efforts to lease facilities at Brown Field.

The Council's Transportation and Land Use Committee said it would recommend approval of a sublease of Pacific Southwest Airlines facilities by New World Aviation if there is no loss of revenue to the city, according to Committee Chairman Leon Williams.

Williams said New World Aviation would have to negotiate with PSA for the sublease.

Under New World Aviation's proposal, the company would establish an educational program oriented to air transportation and aerospace in order to create career development and business expertise in the air transportation field.

Lawmaker Complains

'Fair Trade' Laws Costly to Consumer

The "Fair Trade" laws, a controversial issue in the 1880's designed to keep the small retailer in business by stabilizing prices, has only aided the big, chain operator while the small, family operation, has all but disappeared from the retail scene.

But a voice representing the dissident consumer has arisen. It is the voice of State Senator Dennis E. Carpenter who says pointedly, "There is nothing 'fair' about the fair trade laws for consumers."

He says it costs each family $120 a year for a law that discourages competition in a free enterprise system, as he introduced legislation to repeal the California fair trade laws.

"The so-called 'fair trade' laws amount to retail price fixing," said Carpenter. "Almost all economists agree that they are unfair to consumers and economically unsound.

The present law allows any manufacturer to specify a minimum price that may be charged for his product by the retailer. Once "fair trade" agreement is reach with one retailer, all other retailers in the state are bound to follow it.

"The insidious part of retail prices maintenance," Carpenter said, "is that no one knows just how many items in California are 'fair traded.'

Many items of clothing, (including all men's underwear) appliances, cosmetics, jewelry and electronic equipment (particularly TV-sets) are affected.

Even Copied Typo

California became the first state to enact a "fair trade" law, in 1931. Other states rushed to follow suit, some so rapidly that their bills included a typographical error contained in the original California law which they copied.

At one time, 46 states had such retail price maintenance laws. Since 1952, however, seven states have repealed these laws outright, 24 others have had serious modifications and only 16 remain where "fair trade" remains in its full form.

"In almost all cases the original 'fair trade' laws were passed without adequate public hearings or debate," he said.

"It could not happen in California today with our open legislative process and consumer awareness. Nevertheless, the law exists today and constitutes an unreasonable restraint of trade.

Due Process Violation

"It is contrary to the interest of California consumers and is a violation of due process, depriving the owner of property (the retailer) of his right to determine its sale price," said Carpenter who is Chairman of the Senate Republican Caucus.

"Whatever the justifications for 'fair trade' laws in the past, these laws eliminate the most basic form of competition and should be repealed.

"Repeal of 'fair trade' laws won't cure inflation, but will certainly result in lowered prices for California consumers and a healthier economy."

CAL-TAX NEWS Campaign Figures in Error, it Says

SACRAMENTO — Total campaign expenditures for legislative candidates in the March issue of CAL-TAX NEWS were wrong and should not be reused by others, the publication announced last week.

The figures, the publication said, were taken from an "unofficial" report in the Secretary of State's office. They were calculated by totalling the funds received by all committees of each candidate.

The calculations were accurate, but in some instances they double and even triple-counted some funds as one committee might collect funds and then give those to another committee.

Thus both committees would report the same funds in totals received.

As an extreme example, Assemblyman Priolo was reported to have spent $258,241 but the correct figure should have been $75,000.

Some legislators had several committees and some of the money may have been passed on a second time from one committee to another, creating a triple accounting of the money as cash received.

Carry Over Funds

Another area of possible error occurred in reporting total funds for campaigns. Some candidates had carry-over funds from prior campaigns and in some instances these appear to have been included in the total figures. In other instances these may not have been included. Thus totals from one candidate to another may not be truly comparable.

It being the first year for this system of reporting campaign contributions and expenditures, there are many problems the publication said. Some were from inexperienced people filling out the forms and many from difficulties with the forms, it said. Elimination of duplications of reporting should be achieved before the next major election, CAL-TAX NEWS said.

Home Owners 2nd Tax Installment Due Today

Today is the deadline for property owners to pay the second installment of their 1974-75 real property taxes without incurring a six percent penalty.

Since the deadline for income taxes also comes in April, San Diego County Tax Collector James E. Jones thinks some taxpayers miss the April 10 deadline because they confuse it with the last day to file income tax returns. "Unfortunately," he said, "these people must pay a penalty which amounts to six percent of the delinquent taxes plus an additional $3 in costs."

Occasionally property owners ask to have penalties excused because they did not receive a tax bill. This is not possible under the law, Jones said. He urged property owners who did not receive a tax bill to request one right away. Tax amount will be quoted by phone for last-minute requests. The important thing is to get payments in before the deadline.

Stubs for second installment payments were attached to tax bills mailed in October. Additional notices or bills for the second installment will be sent to taxpayers only if they are requested. Property owners who need tax bills or tax information should contact the tax collector's office at 236-3121.

Neat Burglary

It was a clean, simple burglary.

While George W. Johnson, a postal clerk, and his wife, were at work, a burglar took his black and white television set worth $100, leaving no evidence of entry.

State Tax Info Booklet Available

State Board of Equalization Chairman John W. Lynch released a publication, "Tax Tips for Interior Designers and Decorators," intended as a sales tax guide for owners, managers and other personnel concerned with interior designing and decorating operations. It offers basic information on the application of the California Sales and Use Tax Law to such operations.

The pamphlet outlines what business records must be kept to meet the tax law requirements. Of special interest are explanations of the taxability of self-consumed merchandise, decorator and designer fees, labor — taxable and exempt, reupholstering, sub-contracted work, and improvements to realty, such as carpeting and painting.

"Tax Tips for Interior Designers and Decorators" is available from the Board's field offices located throughout the State, or from Board headquarters at 1020 N st., Sacramento, 95814.

RIDING THE 'BULL' — Loren Lewis, 8357½ Palm st., demonstrates his skateboard skill on "The Bull", the neighborhood nickname for a widely curved and banked stretch of asphalt on the Palm Jr. High School grounds which is ideal for daredevil skateboarding. Skaters may soon find the going much more tough, as Lemon Grove school officials have announced plans to rough up the surface with asphalt curbs to discourage such extra-curricular activity.

East County Burglaries Up 21.9% Sheriff Says

Crime in the unincorporated areas of San Diego County is increasing at an alarming rate, according to statistics supplied to the Board of Supervisors by Sheriff John F. Duffy.

"Burglary is up 29.5%, thefts of over $200 are up 36.2%, auto thefts are up 23.1%, assaults with a deadly weapon are up 41.8%, battery is up 27.2%, and disturbance calls are up an astounding 41.7%, as compared to 1973," Duffy said.

"These are all crimes which are more 'preventable' by the presence of patrolling deputies than such serious crimes as murder, rape, or kidnapping, in which we usually become involved only after the fact," Duffy said.

In an effort to inform the individual supervisors of the crime problems in their own areas, the sheriff broke down the statistics by supervisorial dis ricts.

"In the East County area, Supervisor Dick Brown's district, the figures show burglary up 21.9%, grand theft up 31.6%, auto theft up 23.6%, assaults with deadly weapons up 31.8%, batteries up 34.0%, and disturbances up 42.2%," Duffy said.

The sheriff's memo to the supervisors also detailed where shortages of patrol deputies occurred during the last six months of 1974 and for what period of time.

"The Santee/Lakeside area was short its authorized number of deputies in the field about 12.0% of the time," Duffy reported.

He said the area east of El Cajon through Alpine was short about 1% of the time and the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area was short about 9.8% of the time and the area from Casa de Oro to Jamul was short of manpower a little more than 4% of the time.

The sheriff said he was sharing the information because the figures were useful to him in allocating his present resources and in formulating the Sheriff Department's budget for consideration by the Board of Supervisors.

EPIC, Intervention Center, Forms Here

E.P.I.C. — Effective Problem Intervention Center in Lemon Grove — a newly formed community service agency — has filed incorporation papers with the California Secretary of State in Sacramento.

The members of the Board of Directors met at Ray Heiserman's (Chairman of the Board) on March 8 for the signing of the papers in the presence of a notary public.

Several of the members recently resigned from the Crisis Cottage, a similar organization in Lemon Grove headed by Fred Anderson. Crisis Cottage will continue to operate.

Members of the Board of Directors are: Ray Heiserman, chairman; John Hollowell, vice president; Preston Chipps, secretary-treasurer; Al Roshon, volunteer representative and Ellie Fishman, publicity coordinator. Lynn Sniffen and Jim Tortorioe are also on the board.

Bill Sloan was appointed volunteer coordinator; Ed Ryan, volunteer training coordinator and Lois Heiserman, fund raising coordinator.

24 Hour Service

E.P.I.C. opened its 24 hour hotline and crisis counseling service on April 1. Staff members are presently involved in organizational activities. The group sold many items at the Spring Valley Swap Meet to raise funds for installation of the telephone service. More volunteers are needed in EPIC to participate in the development of the program and its effectiveness as a truly useful community service. Persons interested should contact Al Roshon, volunteer representative at 297-0735, or Ed Ryan, volunteer training coordinator at 461-0214.

Weekend films at the Museum are shown Saturday at 3 p.m. and Sunday at 1:30 and 3 p.m. in the auditorium. Cost is included in the general Museum admission charge of 75 cents.

12-Foot Scale Ship Displayed

A twelve foot scale model of the passenger ship Yale has joined other nautical exhibits now on display on the ferryboat Berkeley on the Embarcadero.

In the early 1900's the Yale sailed twice a week from San Diego to San Francisco with a stop in Wilmington. Leaving on Tuesdays and Fridays she returned promptly at 7:50 p.m. on Thursday and Sunday evenings. The accuracy of her time table was such that harbor area residents set their clocks at the sound of the vessel's returning whistle blast.

The Yale's 360 feet could accommodate up to 600 passengers and carry them at a speed of 21 knots. Her elapsed time to San Francisco of 26 hours bettered that of many trains of the period. The one way passage including berth and gourmet meals was between $8 and $10.

The Yale was built on the east coast in 1906 and brought to San Diego by the Pacific Navigation Co. in 1910.

She and her sister ship Harvard sailed the San Francisco round trip until World War I at which time the Yale went into naval service as a troop shuttle on the English Channel. She returned to the west coast in 1920 and resumed her coastal runs until dock strikes finally curtailed passenger shipping in 1936. She once again served the military as a floating dormitory in the Gulf of Alaska during World War II. Following the war she was scrapped in Stockton.

The Yale model is on loan from the State of California. The model has previously been on display in the Los Angeles Museum of Science.

Medi-Cal Probed by Health Dept.

A preliminary study by the State Department of Health shows that five times as many Medi-Cal beneficiaries as private patients are being denied assistance by California physicians even though they are suffering from potentially serious ailments. This fact, coupled with continuing complaints regarding lack of treatment from Medi-Cal beneficiaries resulted in Interim State Health Director Robert Gnaizda activating a survey of the Medi-Cal program's impact entitled "Project Check Up."

The State's Medi-Cal program is the source of financing health treatments for more than 2.3 million Californians with almost 90 percent of the patients under the "fee-for-service" concept. Under fee-for-service, physicians first treat patients and then submit claims for services rendered to Blue Shield and Blue Cross. The annual cost for paying the physicians and other fee-for-service health providers is $430 million.

The remaining 240,000 Medi-Cal beneficiaries are members of prepaid health plans, a concept through which the state pays monthly advance premiums to sponsoring organizations which in turn provide medical services to enrollees. A detailed study of the PHP concept is underway within the department.

Now Gnaizda has activated "Project Check Up" to gather answers and facts about fee-for-service Medi-Cal activities.

It will explore the question of relative access to medical care and the quality of care.

California Medical Association recently indicated that a growing number of physicians are refusing to treat the poor.

"During our preliminary studies," said Gnaizda, evidence was found which reflects poorly on the ability of the medical community to adequately satisfy the medical needs of all segments of our society.

"The survey shows that virtually every private patient can readily secure a physician's appointment with a single telephone call but the typical Medi-Cal beneficiary often cannot obtain a doctor — and even when successful — can do so only by telephoning several different physicians."
